Situational Self Leadership

Re-define Individual Contribution.

Ask yourself. What motivates you to get up every day and go to work? Do you like what you do? Do you like the people you work with? Are you appreciated for your contributions? What would make your work experience better? Define the ultimate.

Now imagine what your company could do if everyone in it operated on the same level of self-confidence and motivation. On a daily basis. All applying good judgment. Knowing what to do without being told. Acting on what a good job looks like.

Situational Self Leadership is designed to teach individuals—at all levels—how to be proactive contributors to your organisation. Transition them from disengaged to highly motivated. Move them from being responsive to responsible. And, show them how to take initiative, to be innovative, and to solve problems.

Situational Self Leadership uses the latest in accelerated and adult teaching concepts, and is based on our widely renowned Situational Leadership® II Model. A model that provides strategies for gaining more satisfaction from work by examining motivation, confidence, knowledge, and skill.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Take responsibility for themselves and the organisation
- Create a path toward peak performance
- Ask for the support and direction they need to excel
- Capitalise on their Points of Power to enhance leadership, communication, and performance
- Learn the difference between setting goals and achieving them
- Master the art of managing up
- Negotiate for increased authority and autonomy

“Don’t buy into the assumed constraint that position power is the only power that works.”

—Ken Blanchard, PhD, Susan Fowler, and Laurence Hawkins, PhD, coauthors of the book, Self-Leadership and The One Minute Manager, and of the Situational Self Leadership programme

Situational Self Leadership (continued)

The Magic of Situational Self Leadership two-day classroom

This two-day training session presents 37 activities. It's a fast-paced, stimulating learning environment that sets up activities clearly. Time is provided for debriefing and processing each participant's experience. The two-day programme provides significant opportunities for skill practice and mastery.

WHY SITUATIONAL SELF LEADERSHIP?

Situational Self Leadership is the perfect complement for individual contributors whose managers have participated in Situational Leadership® II training. It teaches the same common language to explain development levels and leadership styles, enabling managers and direct reports to communicate more effectively. Known worldwide as the only complete system for defining personal empowerment, this programme:

- Focuses on aligning personal values with professional and organisation values
- Delivers a unique learning experience that shows each participant what it is like to progress from an “enthusiastic beginner” to a “high achiever” in a short time
- Identifies all personal points of power and strengths and provides methods for maximising their use
- Explores empowerment from the perspective of the individual rather than the manager

Situational Self Leadership best practices are part of all the work we do with you, including:

- Organisational Consultation
- Impact Mapping and Goal Alignment
- Diagnostic Tools and Assessments
- Custom Design and Development
- Instructor-led Classroom Delivery
- Keynotes and Executive Overviews
- Public Workshops
- Training for Trainers
